Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3, 5, 9, 10, and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Holloway (4,777,969).

Holloway discloses a compact comprising a manipulable applicator unit 42 including an applicator 46 and a material container unit 12, a receptacle 22 for a coherent body of material, and a cover 10. A well 24 opens through the proximal end of the unit. The applicator is removably inserted into the well. The receptacle has an open side, disposed distally of the well and opening laterally of the unit. The cover is manually movable relative to the receptacle. The container unit includes a housing member with a lateral opening to the receptacle. The housing member is hollow and the receptacle is disposed therewithin. The housing member is manually rotatable via a grasping portion 20. (See Fig. 1 and col. 2, lines 3-12.)

Art Unit: 3732

Claims 1-3, 19, 29, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Aversa (3,397,707).

Aversa discloses a compact comprising a manipulable applicator unit 14 including a brush applicator 23 and a material container unit 8, a receptacle 10 for a lip colorant, and a cover 7. A well 13 opens through the proximal end of the unit. The applicator is removably inserted into the well. The receptacle has an open side, disposed distally of the well and opening laterally of the unit. The cover is manually movable relative to the receptacle. The applicator has a manually graspable handle 15 that projects outwardly of the well. The container unit comprises a housing member for the receptacle. A pan 11 is removably seated in the receptacle. A coherent body of lip colorant is disposed in the pan. (See Figs. 3 and 8; col. 1, lines 20-21; and col. 2, lines 12-14.)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 18 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aversa (3,397,707).

Aversa discloses the claimed invention except for the cover being formed of transparent material. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the cover of transparent material, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Claim 20 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aversa (3,397,707) in view of Giese et al. (5,655,553).

Aversa discloses the claimed invention except for the aperture in the receptacle. Giese et al. disclose a cosmetics compact 10 having apertures 52 in the receptacle 50 to allow pressure to be applied to the bottom of the pan through the holes in the receptacle to allow the pans to be removed without complication and to improve the convenience of the device (see Fig. 2; col. 1, lines 9-13 and 45-49; and col. 2, lines 1-5). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the compact of Aversa with an aperture in the receptacle, in view of Giese et al., in order to allow pressure to be applied to the bottom of the pan through the hole in the receptacle to allow the pan to be removed without complication and to improve the convenience of the device.

Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aversa (3,397,707) in view of Ebbetts, III et al. (5,437,294).

Aversa discloses the claimed invention except for the pan being divided into a plurality of laterally opening compartments. Ebbetts, III et al. disclose a compact 10 having a pan divided into a plurality of laterally opening compartments 18 to allow cosmetics of different colors to be housed therein and improve the versatility of the device (see Fig. 3 and col. 4, lines 20-27). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the compact of Aversa with a pan divided into a plurality of laterally opening compartments, in view of Ebbetts, III et al., in order to allow cosmetics of different colors to be housed therein and improve the versatility of the device.

Art Unit: 3732

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
